

Chief Executive Officer

Canadian Partnership Against Cancer

This is a unique opportunity for a highly collaborative, strategic leader with humility and exceptional communications and interpersonal skills to guide and steward the Canadian Partnership Against Cancer as its next Chief Executive Officer.

The Canadian Partnership Against Cancer (the Partnership) works with Canada's healthcare and cancer care community as well as its partners to ensure fewer people get cancer, more people survive cancer and those living with the disease have a better quality of life. The Partnership supports partners across the country to accelerate and introduce programs that will restore and sustain cancer care in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, drive faster innovation to improve access to world-class screening, address inequities in care for underserved populations – including First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples – and advance the priorities and actions of the Canadian Strategy for Cancer Control 2019-2029.

As the Partnership's next CEO, you play an important stewardship role in serving and supporting the work of its partners and jurisdictions across the country and delivering on a compelling vision with ambitious targets. As a trusted and respected partner, you support and accelerate change and measurable impact by building, strengthening, and leveraging diverse relationships that are built on mutual trust, respect and transparency. You are an inspirational and influential voice, demonstrating empathy, attitude, enthusiasm, passion, and commitment that energizes and motivates staff, communities, federal, provincial, and territorial governments, and partners across Canada.

As the ideal candidate, you are an exceptional leader who builds and nurtures diverse, high performing teams. You are an effective communicator, convener and public speaker who can clearly articulate and translate a range of key messages to partners, clinicians, academics, researchers, governments, policy makers, elected officials, media, the public, etc. Collegial, inclusive, and consensus-oriented, you skillfully make informed decisions based on experience, evidence, sound analysis and the input of others. Peers, staff, and the Board applaud your courage to drive change and promote real, quantifiable, and equitable impact at a systems level as well as your ability to deftly frame and facilitate complex discussions in a multi-stakeholder environment. An ability to communicate in both official languages will be an asset in this national role, as will your knowledge of healthcare and your experience interacting with governments at all levels.

If you are interested in being part of a Partnership whose efforts touch Canadians across all communities, submit your CV and cover letter in confidence to Michael Naufal, at mnaufal@boyden.com.

The Canadian Partnership Against Cancer and Boyden thank all applicants; however, only those selected for an interview will be contacted. If contacted for an interview, please inform us should accommodation be required. The Canadian Partnership Against Cancer has a diverse workforce and is an equal opportunity employer.
